

Lip Liner Lingo

Lip liner will do the trick if you want to look more kissable. Balancing shape and fullness is key to the effect you want. Look straight into a mirror with your mouth closed in order to see the true shape of your lips.

Step 1: With a lip pencil, draw a "bird in flight" pattern on the bow of your lips. Make sure that this line is smooth and even.

Step 2: Line the center of the lower lip, making adjustments for fullness by lining on the inside, outside or directly on the lip line.

Step 3: Extend the "bird in flight" to the corners of the lips, meeting the lower lip line at the inner corner. Beware of the square lip look.

Step 4: Extend the lower lip line to meet at the corner of the upper lip. As you line, make sure to have both lines meet to form a corner and not a square.

Step 5: Use a firm lip brush to blend the inner portion of the liner for a blended look before adding lip color.

Avoid using a dark lip liner with a much lighter color inside. This look distracts and takes attention away from an otherwise attractive makeup application.
